DETAILED ACTION

Note: in this Office Action (OA), the word "window" is defined as an opening especially in the wall of a building/structure for admission of light and/or air. Window is also defined as an open section, slot, bore or other aperture in a wall/structure.

Note: claim 33 has a minor typographical error. In line 11, the term "system can varied," needs to be corrected. Correction, such as --system can be varied-- is suggested.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 11-15, 18, 21, 22, 41-48, 51, 52, and 56-58 are again rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Whitcroft et al. U.S. Patent No. 6,264,649.

Whitcroft discloses a laser treatment device and method of use, the treatment device comprising:

a body 2 having an open bore, and a first planer surface 4 adapted to be placed against a patient's skin, the first planer surface including a first area for cooling the patient's skin, and a second area, which defines an aperture 6 (recessed window) adjacent the first area;

a radiation source disposed in the body, the radiation source positioned to emit treatment energy through the aperture 6; and an open region (viewing window in C-shaped element 26, see Figure 8 and col. 5, lines 14-19) between the bore 5 and the aperture 6 (recessed window) to permit viewing of the patient's skin during treatment, said aperture being aligned with the bore 5 in the body 12. See Figures 8, 8A, and 15; and col. 4, line 13 through col. 6, line 12.

Claim 11, as amended, recites a "window aligned with the aperture in the body," which radiation from the radiation source is transmitted "prior to being transmitted through the aperture."

Hence, since the window in the C-shaped element 26 is disposed between the radiation source and the exit aperture, and the radiation from the radiation source is transmitted through said window prior to being transmitted through the aperture, Whitcroft anticipates the recited limitation.

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Muller US Patent No. 5,830,208.

Muller discloses an apparatus for treating dermatological conditions, the apparatus comprising:

Art Unit: 3735

a body having a first planer surface (cooling device 20), which is adapted to be placed against a patient's skin 14, the first planer surface including a first area for cooling the patient's skin 14, and a second area (aperture 30) adjacent the first area;

a radiation source 40 attached on the body, the radiation source positioned to emit treatment energy through the aperture 30; and an open region (bore 64) between the aperture and the radiation source, said opening region being aligned with the aperture 30, such that the radiation from the radiation source is transmitted through said opening prior to being transmitted through the aperture 30 (see Figures 1-4).

In this OA, the opening 64, which is an open bore, is treated as being equivalent to the window recited in claim 11 as broadly as claimed.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 16, 17, 19, 20, 23-40, 49, 50, 53-55 and 60 are allowed.

Claim 59 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
